

THE HULL BILL IN THE HOUSE

Passed at the President's Request.

Will not Permanently Increase the Army.

Warmly Supported by Democrats as Well as by Republicans. Methods Proposed.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The house to-day passed the army reorganization bill at the urgent request of the President and the secretary of war, but the senate did not remain in session as was expected and the bill will not go to the President until next week.

Some fear was expressed on the Democratic side that the bill might increase the regular army in time of peace, but an amendment prepared by Mr. Bailey, which removed all doubt on this score was accepted by Mr. Hull and the bill passed by unanimous vote.

The vote reorganizes the army into the three battalion formation and authorizes the twenty-five regiments of the infantry arm of the service to be re-erected up to a total of 31,800 enlisted men. It authorizes the recruitment of the ten regiments of the cavalry arm of the service to a total of 12,000 enlisted men, the seven regiments of the artillery arm of the service of 16,457 men and the engineer battalion of five companies up to 752 enlisted men, including two non-commissioned officers, which makes a total for these four arms of the service, when at maximum strength, of 61,010.

The increase of officers provided for in the bill is:

First.—Twenty-five majors, as provided in the first section of the bill. These majors are to be a permanent addition to the commanding officers of the division.

Second.—One hundred and fifty commissioned officers for the two infantry companies in the Third battalion for each of the twenty-five regiments of infantry.

Third.—Eighty-four second lieutenants, being one for each of the twenty-four batteries of artillery when recruited to a war strength.

The second lieutenants are only to be added in the discretion of the President, but assuming that the extra lieutenant is necessary and will be commissioned for each battery of artillery, it is a total of commissioned officers in excess of the present number authorized by law. Of this number (250) twenty-five are majors for the permanent Second battalion and the other 235 officers, it is provided in the last section of the bill, shall, on the conclusion of hostilities, be either released or filling any vacancies existing in other companies of the service, or by an honorable discharge, which may be deemed necessary to reduce the commissioned officers of the army to the number now provided for by the first section of the act.

The house met at 10 o'clock and Mr. Hull immediately called the army bill. It was decided to limit the general debate to half an hour.

Mr. Hull briefly explained some of the features of the bill. He said the infantry force of the army so organized was not efficient in time of war with only fifty privates. It placed but twenty-five men to each company in the fighting line, and made the regular army, which cost on a peace footing $23,000,000 per annum, merely ornamental. The number of privates in each company had been placed in the bill at eighty-four to conform with the organization of the national guard in the majority of the States. Mr. Hull said that it was the purpose of the general army to effect a landing in Cuba at the earliest possible moment. It would take six weeks or two months to equip the volunteer army.

The United States was doing what no other country on earth would dare do—it was going into war without provision for a land force. Congress made no provision for war until war was at hand. The volunteer army would be organized while war existed. Once exports on coast defenses said it would be absolutely impossible to place volunteer forces upon the coast defenses within three months, owing to the complicated character of the new machinery on the siege guns. This made the increase in the regular army artillery force imperative.

Mr. Hull was besieged by questions as to the manner in which the reduction of the army would take place when hostilities ceased and he explained that the officers of the skeleton regiments would be absorbed by promotion.

Mr. Underwood, Democrat of Alabama, vigorously opposed the measure which he declared could not possibly pass under the stress of war pressure.

Mr. Hay, Democrat of Virginia, who warmly advocated the bill, denied that the purpose of the bill was to give West Point officers command which they would not otherwise obtain.

Mr. Cox, Democrat of Tennessee, a member of the committee, supported the bill, which he said, would make the army efficient in time of war.

Mr. March, Republican of Illinois, also a member of the committee, said that in justice to the war department and to the regular army he would state that the former bill, which provided for infantry companies of 250 men, met the approval of neither. The bill did not provide the mode and method of mustering out the supernumerary officers when hostilities ceased.

Mr. Hull said there could be no doubt about the construction of the law. The supernumeraries would be mustered out when the war was closed.

Mr. Bailey, said he thought it was not a very high compliment to the army to be told that the inefficiency of the army on the eve of war was admitted. After thirty years of peace it seemed to him that the plans of the army to meet an emergency should have been perfected. It was strange that an obsolete formation should have been retained all these years. What he was particularly inconsistent about was that the supernumerary officers and men should be mustered out when the war was closed.

Mr. Dooley, Democrat of Missouri, presented the same point. Mr. Hull finally agreed to offer an amendment which would make the language acceptable to Mr. Bailey.

Mr. Lacy, Republican of Iowa, offered an amendment providing that the during time of actual war promotions for gallantry in the field may be made for any vacancies in any grade in the army without examination and without regard to seniority.

Mr. Lacy made a speech in support of his amendment, which aroused enthusiastic applause. The provision of the bill, he said, would make promotions depend upon seniority and technical skill. Such officers asuster and Sheridan, in the war should develop such, would be handicapped. Fighting ability should be rewarded, not ability to pass examinations.

Mr. Lacy's statement that General Forrest, one of the most dashing confederate officers, could hardly read and write, brought a storm of protest from the confederate veterans.

Mr. Handy, Democrat of Delaware supported the amendment.

Mr. Handy offered an amendment to the amendment providing that the President should be authorized to promote enlisted men to the rank of second lieutenants for gallantry in action.

Mr. Sayers, Democrat of Texas, vigorously opposed both amendments. He declared that, if adopted, they would open the way for favoritism and the exercise of political influences.

Both amendments were voted down without division.

Then, at 11:55 a. m., without completing the consideration of the bill, the house took a recess to attend the funeral of Senator Walthall.

The house reconvened after Senator Walthall's funeral at 12:30 p. m. and resumed the consideration of the army reorganization bill. Mr. Settle, Democrat of Kentucky offered an amendment providing that the provision authorizing the President to accept quotas of troops of the states as organized under the laws of such states shall not "take away from the governors of the respective states their rights to determine how the quota of the states may be furnished, whether from the organized militia or volunteers."

The amendment was defeated. An amendment offered by Mr. Bailey was adopted, which provided that the army at the end of the war should be reduced to a peace basis by the "transfer in the same arm of the service, or honorable discharge under such regulations as the Secretary of War may establish," of permanent commissioners officers and men.

The amendment removed practically all the Democratic opposition to the bill.

Mr. King of Utah, offered an amendment which was rejected, which provided that the act should expire by limitation at the end of two years. Without further amendment the bill was passed.

The remainder of the day after 2 o'clock was devoted to orations on the life and public services of the late Senator of South Carolina, and as a further mark of respect the house at 6:45 p. m. adjourned.

COAL SUPPLY.

A Serious Problem in the War Department.

If Declared Contraband the Blocking Fleet May be Hampered.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—It is very hard to judge from the naval authorities any admittance touching the movements of the squadrons or individual ships. Secretary Long has reasoned that if he undertakes to answer questions of this character, even though they may not be of importance, shrined and corroborative might be drawn from his refusal to answer the questions and the enemy might profit thereby.

The navy department is prepared to take advantage of any act of congress in the direction of providing for coal depots and has already outlined plans for the establishment of such depots and has ascertained the necessity of stocking them at very short notice.

The attitude of the British government upon the question of making contraband is awaited with keen interest in naval circles. Operating at the mouth of Cuba, as our allies, it is necessary that anything like a complete blockade is to be maintained, the problem of supplying them with coal is a question of the greatest importance.

This may be done inexpensively and certainly, owing to the character of the enemy's ships, though these, we are told, by the United States.

It is highly desirable, however, that in an emergency our ships may have an opportunity to draw upon one of the British coal supply in the West Indies.

It is believed, however, owing to the guarded manner in which Mr. Ralston replied to the direct question as to governments making coal contraband that Great Britain will adopt a middle course.

She will probably refuse to allow the warships of the combatants to call on a full supply of coal at any port, but on the other hand, she will undoubtedly allow any ship arriving at any port short of coal to take on a supply sufficient to take them to the next port, thus applying the common rule of neutrality.

Captain Benson states that somehow the British are not on board the National Park to be thrown open to a blockade this year. This has, he says is erroneous, word having been received from Secretary Blase that the same conditions will prevail this year as formerly.

HONORS PAID TO WALTHALL

The Senate Attends the Obsequies.

President McKinley Was Present.

The Funeral Services Witnessed by Vice President Hobart and Diplomatic Corps.

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The capitol was draped in mourning today. Flags on the great marble piafs were at half mast and throughout the senate wing of the magnificent structure evidences of grief and sadness were at every hand.

At noon the senate was called to order to pay a tribute of respect to Hon. Edward Gary Walthall, late senator from Mississippi who died Thursday afternoon.

The remains of Senator Walthall were conveyed to the capitol last evening and were lying in state in the marble room of the senate until 9 o'clock today when they were placed in the senate chamber in the area in front of the President's desk.

Senator Walthall's desk and chair on the main aisle were draped in black, the casket was covered with superb floral offerings. Promptly at noon, Vice President Hobart's gavel fell, calling the senate to order. The senators occupied seats on the left side of the chamber, while members of the house of representatives occupied seats on the right side of the chamber. The diplomatic corps, headed by the大使, Sir Julian Pauncefote, occupied seats immediately in front of the members of the house.

The associate justices of the Supreme court and President McKinley and six members of his cabinet, Secretary Long and Postmaster General Smith being unable to be present, were also attendants at the ceremony. Occupying seats in front of the joint committee on arrangements, were the members and immediate relatives of Senator Walthall's family.

The ceremony that followed were impressive. After the invocation by Rev. J. H. Milburn, the blind chaplain of the senate, the Vice President announced that business would be suspended for the day. The services were conducted by Rev. Dr. McKim, rector of Epiphany Protestant Episcopal church of this city and Bishop Thompson of Holly Springs, Miss.

At the conclusion of the beautiful funeral services of the Episcopal church, the pall-bearers, consisting of members of the Capitol police force, entered the chamber and bore out the casket, followed by the honorary pall-bearers, the members of the joint committee of the two branches of congress. The remains of Senator Walthall were conveyed to the Pennsylvania station, where they were placed on a special car. The train bearing the remains, the members of Senator Walthall's family and the joint committee of the senate and house of representatives left at 8 p. m. for Holly Springs, Miss., where the interment will take place.

Captain Benson states that somehow the British are not on board the National Park to be thrown open to a blockade this year. This has, he says is erroneous, word having been received from Secretary Blase that the same conditions will prevail this year as formerly.

FARMERS' CLUB

The New Committees Appointed.

Less Money Favored for County Roads—Vine Hoppers Are Decreasing.

A deferred meeting of the general committee of the Farmers' Club was held yesterday afternoon, at which the new committees were appointed. The committees consist of the following:

Vineyard—George W. Smith, chairman; J. H. LeRue, Henry Eichoff, Colonel H. A. Trevelyan and Miss Hatch.

Orchard—B. E. Hutchinson, chairman; G. N. Freeman, W. G. Urige, George Roeding and H. V. Rudy.

General Products—P. W. Hartle, chairman; A. H. Powers, Miles Nollie, Boyd, George Maynard and A. Harris.

Livestock—George L. Warlow, chairman; John A. Perkins, Miss Eshleman, Captain James Cottle and Charles Eickson.

Legislation—T. O. White, chairman; E. W. Bailey, W. F. Rowell, F. M. Burnham, T. A. Barr, A. R. Nichols and James Conn.

Poultry—A. Munger, chairman; F. M. Burnham, T. A. Barr, A. R. Nichols and James Conn.

Alex Goldstein resigned as treasurer in favor of W. H. Hodgkin, who was unanimously elected.

Quite an interesting session was held yesterday, at which the principal matter discussed was a movement for the inspection of fruit and raising shipping East, as it is a well known fact that the shipment of inferior products has had the effect of injuring the Eastern market for California fruit and vegetables.

John S. Dore, spoke of a co-operative plan whereby the raisin growers would be protected against ruinous prices, and Dr. Eichoff favored the suggestion of the leaders in his club.

The San Francisco train delayed two hours at Morano.

The 5:20 train from San Francisco was an hour and forty minutes late last evening. The delay was caused by the breaking of an axle of the engine at Morano switch, near Riper. The injury to the engine could not be repaired there, and the conductor had to walk to Riper, a distance of four miles, and then telegraph to Tracy for another engine.

The engine arrived from Tracy and brought the train on. The train was delayed at Merano two hours, but 20 minutes of the lost time was made up on the rest of the trip.

ARRESTED FOR BURGLARY.

Thomas Ward Intercepted at Merano Thursday.

Thomas Ward, accused by Frank Palmer of burglarizing his cabin, was arrested in Merano Thursday. Constable John Albin brought the man back to Fresno yesterday. The prisoner was taken before Justice St. John and his bail fixed at $1,500.

Ward is a San Simeon Islander and the offense with which he is accused was committed on January 15th. Palmer states that Ward received a number of tools and sold them to second-hand dealers.

Ward and his wife were arrested last winter for stealing a wheel belonging to L. H. Smith. The bicycle was found in their possession. The charges against them were dismissed because of a lack of sufficient evidence to convict.

Superior Court Notes.

The following business was transacted in the superior court yesterday:

ANSON JUDGE, WITNESS, DEPARTMENT 1. Franco L. Shunklin vs. J. W. Shunklin; Mrs. Frances L. Shunklin sworn and testified. Ordered that defendant pay $50 attorneys' fees, $12 costs and $2 a month alimony until further order of court.

California Savings and Loan Society vs. Hannan, L. Lindroop et al.; default of defendant entered, note and mortgage filed. Judgment for plaintiff for $3219.65. L. H. Smith appointed commissioner, bond $1000.

INRUS. JUDG. WITNESS, DEPARTMENT 2. Joseph Monner vs. Mrs. Teresa Sartore and Thomas Sartore; submitted on brief of five and five days.

"Vine hopper situation continues to improve. The vines are getting a good start and are everywhere ahead of the insects. Egg laying has not yet begun, but will begin quite actively within a week, and within two or three weeks the young vine-hoppers will be on the vines.

"As compared with last year the present situation is very much better."

Dr. Eshleman explained a new device which men have invented to kill the hoppers, and Mr. Woodworth spoke favorably of it. It consists of a box, which has two glass windows. The insects are slipped out and covered with a coal-oil preparation. The box is placed over the vines and the insects are stirred up. They naturally fly toward the light, and the result is that they adhere to the glass and are killed by the coal oil. A glass covered with the hoppers was exhibited.

H. O. Woodworth, also of the university, is in the field to ascertain how many vinehoppers there are in this vicinity at present. Of course, he can arrive at the number only by a rough approximation. He will visit all the vineyards and inspect a number of vines in each, and in that way make his computations.

F. W. Bowell invited all to attend the institute at Easton next Saturday, and on account of the institute it was decided not to have a meeting of the committee on that day. The meeting a week from Saturday will be the regular monthly meeting of the club.

MILITIA INSPECTION.

Col. Hay Will Inspect Companies C and F on Monday.

Colonel T. J. Hay inspected the property of Company F yesterday afternoon. Captain F. L. Carrington, U. S. A., who was detailed a member of the inspection board, was ordered to join his company the first of this week and therefore can not take part in the inspection of the Third brigade.

The property of company C will be inspected Monday morning. Monday evening the annual inspection and muster of companies C and F will take place at Armory hall.

If the United States gives Spain the licking she has earned it will take all summer to do the job justice.

The Expositor says Captain Neville is not an angel. The Captain ought to be taken an action for damages inlander.

The Buena Ventura (good luck) was not well named. She was the first Spanish ship to fall a prize to the gringos.

It's all right for the American women to be enthusiastic, but they ought to leave the boys in blue who are on the way to the front a button or two.

Porcupine appears to be going farther than is consistent with her obligations as a neutral in her excessive hospitality to Spain's warships at the Cape Verde islands.

It is said that the coal dealers at Norfolk sold coal to Spanish agents for a dollar a ton less than they charged the United States. The Norfolk coal dealers seem to be as soulless as a corporation.

If William J. Bryan does not tender his services to his country in the war with Spain, he can at least afford to hire a substitute. The proceeds of one or two of his eloquent lectures would pay the bill.

The farmer who succeeds in raising a crop of any kind of feed this summer will have no reason to complain of hard times. Every acre of irrigated land can be made a revenue producer this year.

No wonder President Dole of Hawaii could afford to be liberal in his subscription to the fund for the families of the sailors who went down with the Maine. He charged the contribution to his government.

The Republicans have made arrangements for balloting from the seat of war today. They will be posted on the window of the business office on Tulare street, next to the postoffice. There are likely to be important developments today.

IF MISTAKES HAVE BEEN MADE.

The mistakes of the President during the last two months were many and his policy was weak and vacillating. But with the declaration of war the President has dropped the political and kept the people in the Stockton Mail.

These mistakes have been made John D. Long, because they have not been made by McKinley, but by the Unionist politicians and inflammatory press against whose savage and lying attacks he stood as firm as adamant. Had these partisans and their heads succeeded in forcing the hand of the Chief Executive the country would have been plunged into war before it was prepared to fight a battle, and in a manner that would have invited the condemnation of the civilized world. By his patient diplomacy under the most trying circumstances the President not only demonstrated that this government was honestly and earnestly seeking a peaceful solution of the problems involved in the Cuban situation and the destruction of the Maine, but he gained the time so vitally essential to put this government in position to go to war if war was the inevitable outcome.

Had President McKinley acted with less deliberation, had he exercised less diplomacy and urged the cause of peace less earnestly, he would have been in the wrong, and history would have condemned him as it will now condemn his critics.

There is probably no foundation for the report that the Vizcaya, Oquendo and Cardenal Cisneros are to be detached from the Spanish squadron at Cape Verde Islands and sent to the Philippines to "destroy" our Asiatic squadron. In the first place the Spanish squadron would be too greatly weakened by this step; in the second, notwithstanding the statement of "a naval officer who is close to Admiral Biscoe," these three ships would by no means have the "picnic" he supposes they would, even with the assistance of what Spanish craft there may now be in those waters. The Asiatic squadron consists of the Olympia, one of the finest cruisers in our navy, and faster than any of the three Spanish ships before named; the Boston, Baltimore, Raleigh and the gunboats Concord and Petrel. These ships would be more than a match for the three Spanish boats. If there were any danger, however, they could be reinforced with a vessel from this coast. It would take the Spanish boats five or six weeks to make the trip to the Philippines, by which time the American squadron could do all the damage there that is to be done.

The Iowa legislature must be an exception among legislatures. When it adjourned both Democratic and Republican journals combined in commending its work. The press appears to have been deceived, for a number of good laws were passed and its record was clean. When will California have a legislature that will be entitled to universal praise?

Fresno's ice factory and cold storage plant is now completed and within a few days will be ready for business, when the people of this city and county will have the opportunity to demonstrate their loyalty to a home industry of great importance. The price of ice has been greatly reduced as the result of competition, and the enterprise that has brought about this desirable result should be handsomely rewarded by a liberal patronage. The increased consumption as a result of low prices will in itself add largely to the volume of business.

In view of the war and the drought, Bakersfield is seriously considering the proposition to abandon the Valley road, re-erect and divert the fund raised to defray the expense to some more necessary purpose. It is probably a wise course to pursue. With the nation embroiled in war and the local industries suffering from the failure of crops, there can be little satisfaction in any sort of justification, even when so important an event as the completion of the Valley road furnishes the occasion. Next year we shall feel more like celebrating, and we shall still have the Valley road.

What admiration and respect Democrats have for dead Republicans. It has been a common thing for them to wish for "an hour of Blaize" the past two months, believing that were he alive and in the White House he would give the country a more vigorous foreign policy. Yet when this same "Plumed Knight," whose spirit the Expositor invokes, was at the head of the state department his vigorous policy earned him nothing but abuse from the Democrats, who nicknamed him "Jingo Jim."

The Spanish minister to this country was permitted to take his departure in peace; our representative in Spain, however, did not get out of that country without molestation. The only trouble Señor Polo y Bernabeu had was with a Pullman porter, who refused to put out the lights in the car when requested to do so by the diplomat. For our part, we'd rather face the fury of a Spanish mob any day than the contemptuous stare of an austeric Pullman porter.

Grover Cleveland is becoming absolutely patriotic. In a speech to the Princeton students last Thursday night he said: "Stand by the country when she is right, and I am not sure that we should not stand by her when she is wrong." Grover's residence near the college youngsters is having a good effect upon him. In another year or so he may be dead sure that it's the thing to stand by one's country whether it's right or wrong.

"Buffalo Bill" has set a commendable example to patriots who desire to serve their country. He does not ask for a high commission or large command, but couches his request to his old commander in the Indian wars, General Henry C. Corbin, in the following characteristic note:

Dear General Corbin—Say, what is the army going to do with me if war is declared? I've got to drive a six-mile team or something. Your old scout, C. W.

The country owes much to the courage and presence of mind of a young Southern naval officer who recently was a member of a party of English officers that were permitted to visit the Moro castle works and the Punta foris on the point opposite the Moro. The Spanish authorities never dreamed that a "Yankee" was one of the party, which was in civilian dress.

The young American kept his eyes wide open, and when he got away, back to his hotel, he made an excellent sketch of the interior of the forts and accompanied it with a complete description of the inner works. This report states that the land side of the Moro is absolutely unprotected even by earthworks; that 120 guns in position, not more than thirty are at all modern. He says that there are a number of 8 and 10-inch breech-loaders in the Moro, but there are neither carriages nor emplacements ready for them, and they are lying out exposed to rain and dust.

From the sea front, he states that the castle is well defended, and all the modern guns are there. He regards the Punta as the most formidable of all the Spanish defenses in Cuba, if attacked from the sea, but thinks it could be carried without great loss by a combined land and water movement, as the guns have but a limited degree of variation of fire, that is, cannot be very effective, as the objects of their aim are right in front. He also states that the quarters of officers and men are just as they were one hundred years ago, and dirty and in the highest degree unsanitary in their fittings.

It is pretty clear that Candidate Macario received a blow under the belt at the recent meeting of the Democratic state central committee, but it is not stated whence the blow came. It would seem, however, that it was given in the interest of Governor Bland, though Candidate Butler may have an indignant notion that he will be benefited thereby.

It is said that the house judiciary committee will report favorably the bill to create a new judicial district in Central California, which should encourage the people of the counties interested to supply their representatives in both the house and senate with all the data at their command substantiating the claim that the creation of the district is necessary.

On, my how bad the Santa Cruz Suez feels. It declares the war to be contrary to the genius and spirit of our institutions, and says that its announcement aroused no thrill of enthusiasm in its "friends." But then the Suez's office is exposed to an attack from Spanish vessels. Let it move a few miles inland and brace up.

Arthur McElroy's picture of that evang of reform, William J. Bryan, holding with Dick Croker, the boss of Tammany Hall, at the Jefferson banquet in Washington, is a pretty one for the contemplation of the people who are pinning their hopes on the future of the Nebraska orator.

The first shot of the war was fired by Patrick Mallon, who manned the six-pounder on the Nashville which brought the Buena Ventura to. Patrick must wear a four-leaved clover about him. His name will live in history. Reb for Patrick!

This government has taken possession of the cable office at Key West. This will seem a worse disaster to the yellow papers than would the capture by the Spanish of an American vessel.

If the government needs more horses and mules it can get them at its own price in some localities in this state where a lot of good hay is worth more than a dozen ordinary horses.

Mr. Mark Hanna had made the remarks concerning the Hispano-American war that are attributed to Senator White, the Democratic papers would not be so uproariously silent.

THE PRESIDENT.

From the San Francisco Chronicle. The Washington correspondents did not need to go to "an administration source" for the reasons which led the President to advise against the recognition of the Cuban republic. They could have found them the day after his message was sent to congress and many days thereafter in the columns of the Chronicle. This journal pointed out insistently that the government by such recognition would put its forces in Cuba under insurgent control and that, after peace had come, would be disbanded from holding any Cuban ports for industry. And these, as is now "discovered" by the correspondents, are the very reasons which inspired the executive recommendations.

The more the course of the President is studied in this said affair with Spain the more the truth is pressed home that he is a wise, discreet yet tenacious and dependable man of the Abraham Lincoln school. President McKinley has not sought war. He bewared of entrance to a quarrel. In his first message to congress there was no belligerency and yet no lack of sympathy for those who were bearing the miseries of the Cuban war. Spain was admonished in courteous terms that the United States could not look with favor upon the indefinite prolongation of the struggle. All the resources of diplomacy were used to soften the hardships of the Cubans and to induce Spain to grant real autonomy. One of the triumphs of the President's policy was the recall of Weyler. Finally, when the Maine was destroyed at her anchorage, McKinley let no such gust of anger disturb his peace or affect the calmness of his judgment. He must have realized that that war would come. Well anyway these guys what tried to do me, Zieg and the Expositor just in the job of runnin' this deal now growlin' on their bellies out portown before the Goddess just like those Spanish guys what has started out to lick Uncle Tom. We don't know whether we will give them the glad hand again or not, but they're knucklin' their nuts on the pavement an' howlin' at the full moon. But we an' Zieg we guys what we take the case under advisement an' we don't know what we'll do to them.

But about this fusion Jay McElroy has that fixed pretty solid an' it don't make no difference which of the guys win in the election we've got all the prints' anyway because we've been the friend of the former Pop. an' we's straight out Democratic too," an' O'Toole winched his weather eye as he plunged the hand of the anarchist down with a fluid.

THE JUVENILES.

"How's the fusion graft?" Well, I guess she's all G. K., said O'Toole, as he rocked a nickel in the slot machine on the blue. "Fusion's all right when we, Zieg an' the Expositor can run it like A. B. tells us; but when there's young blokes and the middle-aged push gets in' tries to thumb-down the deal an' give Zieg an' the organ of the party—that's the Expositor—the glassy eye an' the marble heart an' what we's ain't in it, then fusion's all wrong."

MADERA IN LINE

Another "Big Six" Favors Fusion.

Legislative Offices Were Divided.

Met With the Fresno Committee Yesterday — What the Populists Want.

NOT FOR FRIENDS

Are We to Eat What We Don't Want.

A famous physician, in a late article on the subject of health, speaking particularly of the value of good digestion, says:

"Don't eat anything you don't want, even to please your friends."

"Don't be afraid of microbes; they will not hurt you."

"A healthy condition of the stomach makes a healthy skin and a good complexion."

"Learn and practice good habits; they are easy and most pleasant."

"A diet with an eye to acquiring flesh should consist of liquids—milk, water, but not coffee or tea; no hot breads, plenty of butter and cheese."

"Above all, eat slowly and never exercise till half an hour after meals."

Another says: I have known weak eyes cured by leaving off coffee, and other cases of nervous troubles like Kidney complaints, dyspepsia, liver and heart trouble, and bowel complications directly relieved by the abandonment of coffee and the use of Postum Food Coffe.

The alkaloïds of coffee are a serious poison to many people and when one finds disease coming on, it is high time to stop the cause and take some natural food like Postum Food Coffe, which relieves the broken down nerve centers all over the human body. Ten days trial will prove the facts and furnish great relief to the sufferer.

15 and 25 cent packages of groceries.

The Democratic and Populist leaders of Madera county have joined the fusion movement. Yesterday a committee of six—three Democrats and three Populists—came down from Madera to arrange the division of legislative offices. The Democrats were represented by Will Hughes, Ed McCord and Frank Barratta, and the Populists by John Richardson, L. U. Hoskiss and J. W. Green.

The Populist committee met with the Fresno county Populist fusion committee for conference before joining the Democratic fusionists at W. D. Foote's office.

The Madera committee stated very plainly that if the Democrats of their county did not divide up their offices fairly they were forgoing fusion on legislative candidates. The Fresno committee, including H. L. Paine, G. P. Cummings and F. Knoblock, magnanimously conceded the naming of a senatorial candidate to the Madera Populists.

The Democratic fusionists also held a conference previous to a meeting of all the committees. The Madera Democrats were conceded the naming of a legislative candidate for the Sixty-second Assembly district and the Fresno county won secure the candidate for the Sixty-third district.

The committee met after the conference and made known their actions. The Democrats endeavored to trade the nomination of a candidate for the assembly for the state senatorial, but the Populists were opposed to any juggling with the fusion program, suspecting that if they showed a disposition to conciliate anything the Democrats would endeavor to enclose them out of everything. The Madera Populists informed the committee of their intention to demand an equitable share of the county offices. Whether this is conceded will be known on May 14th, when the Madera Democrats and Populists will hold a county convention for the purpose of fusion.

MC EWEN'S LETTER

Bryan and Croker
Divide Honors.

At the Jefferson Banquet in Washington.

The Reformer Calls on the Boss.
Easter and the 400 of Gotham.

NEW YORK, April 18.—The growth of the war spirit among the better elements of the metropolis is now so rapid as to be noticeable by the least observer. The great cost of peace, accompanied by naval and military preparations and the evident fact that the general tension and excitement have brought about a grave disturbance of business conditions, awaken daily intensifying desire in the wealth, intelligence, education and conscience of this region for prompt and patriotic action. It is being seen that until the loathsome flag of Spain shall be hauled down from Morro castle, till an end has been put to the starvation of helpless women and children, till, in short, Cuba has been given the priceless boon of freedom, business here can't really be expected to know where it is at. Besides, Cuba rescued from Spain and helpless in the hands of our government to do with as it likes, begins to appeal to the Wall street imagination. Financiers are human and therefore to be allured by promises of adventure and prize money, the sacred fires of patriotism once set, will go in the Wall-street breast. The newspaper heading over the news item was "Young Vanderbilt Ready for War." He was one of the three hundred, but the item did not say that he did anything except go through the exercises like the rest. It is astonishing that boys thus treated as if they were public characters, simply because they are the sons of millionaire fathers should come to have aristocratic ideas as to their consequence and become insufferable men? No young noble at Oxford is treated to more indignities than this Vanderbilt had. Other students are proud of his repartees and slips of the tongue in their conversation frequently. A friend has told me something about this boy that entitles him to respect and sympathy. "A lady I know," said my friend, "want for me the other day as a newspaper man on account of young Vanderbilt. He visits her home often as she'll let him—nice quiet woman of old family, solid wealth and that sort of thing, who went to school with my mother. The poor young devil isn't very happy, you understand—mother divorced and married again to Belmont, to testify its touching faith in a Providence that is so good to it. Those, however, who are better qualified than I am to judge in such matters affirm that few of the parades were first class, that the howlpest swells have decided that Easter, having become popular, is vulgar. The ladies of the inner 75 of the 400, therefore, are said to eschew the bouquets and spring attire on the great day now, wear their old clothes and hurry home to peep from their windows at the less enlightened parades, pitying them in their finery.

"This may be so; I don't know whether it is not, but I doubt it, for like others of the proletariat, I went with repugnance to view the show, and surely my motives would be incompatible. I, too, my heart to it was worth seeing. There could be no doubt about the wealth of the great majority of the picayun promoters, nor of their refinement either. One received a stunning impression of loveliness in bulk. Holy catin, dears are more vivacious, becoming the youthful, male countenance, and when the mortal tenebrous is topped with the mortal thing in military and garbed in costly stuffs of quail colors and perfect tail, the heart of beholding man swells with pleasure and approval. The down-agers don't count, of course. They are ever odious—at the horse show, the theater or the Easter march—with their tall, thin whiskers, their arrogance and pride. Luxury is good for young women. Their proper business being to please to the sight, money and leisure are to them what hot-house cultivation is to flowers, when they are ay good to start with."

Returning to the ladies of the aristocracy, 100 or more of them were on board the "Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse" on Wednesday last, bound for Europe. It is a sumptuous, a gorgeous boat, but none too fine in its appointments for those passengers who are used to every luxury. A rally of the noblesse of no country, I should imagine, could show a handsomer, healthier, better dressed or better mannered set of woman. Some friends of mine were going aboard—they are not of the wealthiest aristocracy—and it was my privilege to gaze on the neophytes.

Two ladies among them I noticed particularly, one somewhat older than the other but both better looking than most, and in their dress and carriage up to the high average. Composed, graceful, smiling serenely and surrounded by friend-bringing flowers and all the daintiness little things it is usual to bring to those who are about to undergo the Atlantic forty trip, they seemed high types of the lady of fashion, unapproached at last. Democratic convention succeeded the last convention in the matter of political power, but the young men are not well dressed. Should there be a long war and a draft, these over-groomed culps of aristocracy will not furnish large quota. Money and leisure, a hot-house atmosphere and absorption of the spirit of the doziers, don't make for virility, physical or mental.

Considering their environment it is remarkable how many of the coddled girls fail to fit in as well as they do, or that any of them should retain their modesty and a sane notion of their relative importance in the world.

The other day some three hundred of Harvard's students went out for military drill. The newspaper heading over the news item was "Young Vanderbilt Ready for War." He was one of the three hundred, but the item did not say that he did anything except go through the exercises like the rest. It is astonishing that boys thus treated as if they were public characters, simply because they are the sons of millionaire fathers should come to have aristocratic ideas as to their consequence and become insufferable men? The poor young devil isn't very happy, you understand—mother divorced and married again to Belmont, and father doing the oaks-walk not and all that. That boy's miserable," this lady said to me. "He feels the family misfortune very keenly and under the circumstances wants to attract as little notice to himself as possible, yet the newspapers hardly let him alone for two days together. He's regularly howled up by reporters as if he were a great personage, a criminal or an actor, etc., because he has a good nose and isn't a fool, and he's said to us it makes his existence as harassing and wracked that he'd give half his money if his name was not Vanderbilt. If it were not that I have a daughter and that my motives would be incompatible, I, too, my heart to it was worth seeing. There could be no doubt about the wealth of the great majority of the picayun promoters, nor of their refinement either. One received a stunning impression of loveliness in bulk. Holy catin, dears are more vivacious, becoming the youthful, male countenance, and when the mortal tenebrous is topped with the mortal thing in military and garbed in costly stuffs of quail colors and perfect tail, the heart of beholding man swells with pleasure and approval.
